Good humor is what we need more of and search harder for and find less of when the tension is greatest.

Take Martin for example. No, don't take Martin for example, says Leslie.

But, Les, you're not a little boy with a knashed baby tooth turned grey and shock of white hair that hangs in your eyes. Like your Mother, you're only beautiful. Not good enough, huh?

Well, Les, you don't spend 14 minutes every morning filling your pockets with string and nails and gravel and dead things (yuh!) which he spent the whole day before collecting, and which he brings back, added to every evening.

You run about gracefully and play with the ordinary things you expect girls to play with. Did you ever come home with a lizard in your hand?

That Martin has good humor. What boy doesn't? And that's what we would like to find more of with less strain.

Driver Laws Tightened

AUSTIN — The Texas Legislature has given Lone Star motorists a set of traffic laws designed to help check the state's escalating traffic accident rate. Strengthened driver license provisions, more complete vehicle inspection requirements plus statewide expansion of the driver education program and study of the medical aspects of traffic safety are all a part of the newly enacted legislation.

Introduced by Representatives David Crews, Conroe; Ralph Wayne, Plainview and Senator H. J. Blanchard, Lubbock, the bills creating these new laws were a major portion of Gov. John Connally's 1967 highway safety program. Citizen support for these measures was led by Texans For Traffic Safety.

Earlier legislation passed in this session called for reflectorized license plates to be issued by the state. The extra safety measure was introduced in HB 441 by Rep. Milton Schiller of Cameron.

The new drivers license law provides for the issuance of licenses at age 16 to teenagers who have completed approved driver education courses, or who present a certificate from their superintendent of schools showing that driver education is not taught in their school. This exception will apply only until June 1, 1969 and is designed to permit schools to gear up for a vastly expanded driver education program.

The minimum age for teens without driver education will be 18, however operators of motorcycles or motorcycles with 5 horsepower or less may be licensed at age 15. The minimum age for chauffeur and commercial licenses will be 17.

For the first time in Texas all motorcycle operators will be required to have a drivers license and all persons will be required to pass a driving test in the type of vehicle for which they will be licensed to operate. This provision includes trucks, tractor-semis and motorcycles.

Penalties for driving while a license is suspended are increased by the new driver license law. Persons convicted of driving while their license is suspended or revoked will be faced with a mandatory jail sentence of not less than 72 hours nor more than 6 months, plus fines ranging from $25 to $500. Rehabilitation driver training schools will be established by the Department of Public Safety for drivers whose licenses have been suspended or revoked.

VEHICLE INSPECTION
The present vehicle inspection law has been amended to provide for the inspection of a vehicle's steering system, seat belts, wheels and tires. The inspection fee is raised to $1.75 to cover this addition to the list of items inspected.

Expansion of the driver education program in high schools was assured with the appropriation of $2 million. When this expansion is completed, all Texas teenagers should be able to take driver education prior to graduation from high school and qualify for licensing at age 16 instead of 18. The bill accomplishing this also designated the Governor as the one person responsible for preparing and administering a state-wide traffic safety program designed to reduce traffic accidents.

The Governor is also authorized to cooperate with the Federal Government and with all political subdivisions of the state to receive and disburse on behalf of the state, Federal funds to be made available under the Highway Safety Act.

COMMERCIAL SCHOOLS

For the first time, commercial driver training schools and their instructors will be licensed by the state. This is an effort to bring all driver training schools up to the standards set by the State and Federal governments.

Taking another approach to the problem of traffic accidents, the legislature directed the State Department of Health to study the medical aspects of traffic safety and to recommend standards and procedures based on these studies to the Department of Public Safety. Particular attention will be given to driver licensing, law enforcement and accident investigation.

September 1, 1967 is the effective date of most of the traffic laws passed by the legislature. A law requiring all motorcycle riders to wear approved safety helmets will become effective January 1, 1968 and on that same date all motorcycle operators will be required to have a motorcycle operators license.

LEGISLATURE COMMENDED

"The action of the 60th Legislature in passing these badly needed traffic safety laws can result in the saving of thousands of lives," Robert F. Miller, president, Texans For Traffic Safety stated in commenting on the action taken by the legislature.

"Traffic safety efforts in Texas have been ham-strung by inadequate laws. After September 1, this condition will no longer exist. If these laws are obeyed and they are rigidly enforced, then our traffic accident rate will go down. When this happens, Texans will save a lot of money and many Texans will keep on living," Mr. Miller said.

Two Austin Men Charged In Milam House Burglaries

Two men in Austin and San Marcos jails have been charged with burglary of the Hope Camp and Edward Patschke houses in west Milam County last month.

Sheriff Carl Black said Willie Holloway and Joe Friedrich, both of Austin, had been charged with the Milam burglaries as well as 25 house burglaries in Bastrop County, 7 in Williamson County and others in Lee, Travis, Comal and Hays counties.

Black said a cache of stolen clothes and other goods had been found in the men's house in Austin. He said a gun and jewelry box taken from the Camp home had been recovered, however most of the guns taken in the series of burglaries were sold in San Antonio. He said some other items taken from the Camp and Patschke homes had been thrown in the San Gabriel River.

Black said the Austin Negroes, both in their mid-twenties, implicated two other Austin men in the burglary of the Henry Barber house in west Milam County.

The sheriff said all of the break-ins were similar and occurred in the daytime when residents were away from their homes.

HEAVY SCHEDULE

A round-the-clock schedule and a new commander, Brig. Gen. James D. Scott, will greet the men. He is scheduled to assume command June 1, succeeding retiring commander Maj. Gen. Luther E. Orrick.

During the first week, the 49th will be split with some units heading into wooded areas, some 40 miles from the main cantonment.

Advance units will begin to hit highways today and Friday, but Sunday will be Day-Day for the division in which about 1,500 jeeps, trucks and military transports will move from 70 Texas cities and towns.

The Milam unit, Company C, is 20 years old June 3. It was organized and federally recognized June 3, 1947, as Battery C, 239th Field Artillery Battalion.

Defibrillator Added At Newton Hospital

Newton Memorial Hospital has installed a Defibrillator, a machine that is used for treatment of various kinds of acute heart failure or cardiac arrest.

Dr. W. R. Newton said the machine, believed to be the first in use in Milam County, works as an electric massage to force the heart to resume functioning. He said it had proved more effective than drugs formerly in use.

Former Alcoa Man Sentenced In Copper Thefts From Plant

A former Alcoa employee from Milano pleaded guilty last week to theft of approximately 4,000 pounds of copper wedges from the Alcoa plant and received a five year probation sentence in Milam District Court.

Robert Melton received the probation sentence pending full restitution of the value of the copper by June 24.

County Attorney John Henderson Jr. said Melton had sold the copper wedges to an iron and metal dealer in Waco. Part of the metal was recovered after Alcoa security officers discovered it at Waco last fall.

The copper was taken from the Rockdale plant in 50 pound blocks. Sheriff Carl Black said the Waco dealer has about $1,700 in canceled checks that he had paid Melton for the metal.

'HEAD START', REMEDIAL PLAN BEGIN JUNE 5

Four summer school programs are getting underway in early June in Cameron schools.

Total number of students could exceed 300 this summer, Supt. D. R. Dodson estimated.

Supt. Dodson is supervising the second year of Operation Head Start, a 200 to 250-pupil remedial summer school, a student work program and pre-school program for English deficiencies.

Head Start received a $7,273 grant from Office of Economic Opportunity through the Williamson - Burnet County Opportunity, Inc., Supt. Dodson told The Herald. He received the letter of authorization from Raleigh S. Elliott, executive director of the W-B program.

The 36-pupil Head Start program begins June 5 for eight weeks, four hours a day, for pre-schoolers at O. J. Thomas School. Two teachers will conduct the course. 200 to 250 PUPILS

Supt. Dodson anticipates 200 to 250 pupils in the eight-grade Remedial Summer School, which begins June 12 and continues through July 21.

It will operate on a voluntary basis, being designed for remedial work to strengthen students in major subjects. It would not change a student's grade level.

Dodson said earlier that if more students volunteered for summer school than the staff could handle, selection will be made on basis of first-choice students with averages below 75 and second-choice students with averages below 80.

Subjects will include:
Remedial Reading - Grades 1 through 8.
Remedial Science - Grades 4 through 8.
Remedial Math - Grades 4 through 8.
Remedial Social Studies - Grades 4 through 8.
Remedial Language Arts - Grades 1 through 8.
Grades 1 through 3 will be taught at Ben Milam School and Grades 4 through 8 at Ada Henderson School.

NYC WORK PLAN

Fourteen students under a Neighborhood Youth Corps program will be assisting in maintenance and pre-school work in Cameron Public Schools for 10 weeks under a $3,300 NYC grant.

And 16 pre-schoolers will be taught in a course for any English deficiencies. One teacher will conduct the course.

Approximately 2,000 4-H Club members, leaders and friends will attend the ceremonies at G. Rolfe White Coliseum. Award presentations will be made by Jerry D. Wheat, Dallas, chairman of the Foundation.

Rep. Schiller will be honored for his long-time support of 4-H. He has helped with the local county 4-H Awards Program each year which honors fellow workers as well as 4-H Club members. He has actively supported 4-H Club work by being a financial sponsor for 15 years in the county-wide 4-H Broiler program, and through his activities as a member of the Texas Legislature. He recently introduced in the Legislature a resolution complimenting 4-H Club work in the counties of the State.

No! It doesn't happen in one day. It takes four years.

And it's not really the years that count. It's the days... and the hours. For when the scroll is in our hand... what are we?

We are what we have become... gradually... through all those hours, days, and years.

So the wisest among us recognize a degree for what it is; a recognition of knowledge and proficiency that have been attained.

And while we're acquiring that knowledge... and while we're applying that proficiency... we build into our hours, days and years the spiritual fibre of religious conviction and Christian service.

For gradually — we are becoming the men and women that one day we will be!

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH
The Church is the greatest factor in the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and read his Bible daily.

Open Meetings Now Mandatory — Gov. John Connally signs Senate Bill 94 in presence of Garth Jones, Associated Press; Sen. Chet Brooks of Pasadena, sponsor of the bill; Stuart Long, Long News Service, Austin; and Don Scarbrough, Williamson County Sun, Georgetown. All are members of Sigma Delta Chi, professional journalism fraternity, one of several groups that urged the bill's passage. Jones is president of the Austin SDX Chapter and Capitol Correspondent for AP. Scarbrough is a member of Texas Press Association's legislative committee. Rep. Bill Rapp of Raymondville, House sponsor, was unable to be present. Under the terms of the bill all meetings of official public bodies must be open to the press and to the public. Connally proclaimed the law "a great step forward for the people of Texas."

TCU Professor Seeks Records Of Robertson Colony Settlers

A search for more historical letters and documents about Milam County will continue this summer and fall. Dr. Malcolm D. McLean, associate dean of Arts and Sciences at TCU, is gathering all the material he can find concerning the history of the Robertson Colony. In this area Dr. McLean will be working in cooperation with Miss Mary Belle Batte, chairman of the Milam County Historical Survey Committee. Milam County is one of the 30 which were formed out of what was known as the Robertson Colony before the Texas Revolution. The Colony occupied an area about 100 miles wide and 200 miles long, starting a few miles north of Austin and extending up through Waco to a point near Fort Worth. Dr. McLean is the great-great-grandson of Major Sterling

C. Robertson, who brought the original colonists into this area. He would like for anyone who has a letter or other document written in or about the Robertson Colony before the Battle of San Jacinto (April 21, 1836) to send him a copy so that he can give their ancestors proper credit in the several books which are to be published. The most difficult documents to find are the personal letters, account books, and memoranda which are still in private hands among the descendants of the Robertson Colonists. Dr. McLean would particularly like to have a copy of the family Bible records of colonists — pages telling when he was born, married, and died, with the names of his children. Dr. McLean's address is 2555 Cockrell, Fort Worth, Texas 76103.

Live Oak Society Preserves Famed Southern Shade Trees

The most exclusive club in America may be the Live Oak Society. The members are live oak trees at least 100 years old. Dues are modest — 25 acorns a year. Few trees have been so honored in American history and literature as the live oak, the National Geographic Society says. The giant, moss-draped evergreen has shaded Indian powwows, inspired great poets, even saved lives. During hurricanes along the Louisiana coast in 1857, deep-rooted oaks held fast to serve as refuges in the ensuing floods. Hundreds of people swam or floated to live oaks, and held on safely until rescued. Shaded Great Events Live oaks, because of their long life, have stood silent witness to stirring events in United States history. Aaron Burr was first tried for treason in 1807 beneath live oaks still guarding the gates of Jefferson College in Washington, Mississippi. After the fall of the Alamo in 1836, Sam Houston regrouped his volunteers under the gnarled limbs of a live oak. Those men formed the nucleus of the army that later freed Texas from Mexican rule. John and Charles Wesley, founders of Methodism, preached to Georgians beneath a live oak tree that still grows beside historic Christ Church on St. Simons Island,

The live oak is Georgia's state tree; it is one of the South's most elegant and graceful plants. Wide-spreading canopies of live oaks shade city streets and the pathways of old plantations. George Washington so admired a live oak in South Carolina that he interceded to save it from being cut down. Many oak species lose their foliage in winter, but the live oak (Quercus virginiana) keeps its green leaves until they are pushed off by new ones. The perpetual freshness of the shiny, oblong leaves gives the live oak its name. Live oaks grow in a narrow belt of southern coastal plains from Texas to North Carolina. The tree seldom rises above 50 feet, but close to the ground it branches into three or four massive limbs that jut out almost horizontally for 50 feet or more, sometimes several times farther than the tree is high. The ornamental trees have inspired many writers and poets. "The soft green leaves dangle all around me," wrote Walt Whitman, resting in the rain beneath an oak in Georgia. "The wind steadily keeps up units hoarse soothing music over my head—Nature's mighty whisper." Mother of "Old Ironsides" Prized for hardness and durability, live-oak timbers went into many wooden fighting ships. It was

Travel Trails To Be Mapped By State Communities

AUSTIN A scenic network of travel trails, winding through historical and recreational Texas, is being mapped by the surveyors who know the territory best — the state's citizens and community officials. Letters have been mailed to the state's 254 county judges by the newly-appointed Texas Travel Trails Committee, requesting information on sites in their areas which might be included on the trails. Copies of the letter were also sent to chairmen of the state's county historical survey committees and presidents of chambers of commerce. Specifically the committee is seeking information on: —Sites of unusual scenic, geological or geographic interest. —Outstanding historic and archaeological sites. —Recreational sites. —Cultural attractions. County Judges will have until June 30 to meet with city leaders and submit reasons why their areas should be included in the program. The byways, designed to lure travelers "off the beaten path," will be routed over existing highways. Last year 19.2 million out-of-state visitors came to Texas; but their average stay declined from 6.1 days in 1965 to 5.8 days. Governor Connally has expressed hope that the Travel Trails program will induce tourists to remain in the state longer by opening up tours through the countryside and smaller communities which have been bypassed by super highways. The governor said, "Our purpose is to encourage sight-seers off the high-speed highways and onto the byways where they may take their time savoring the wealth of attractions Texas has to offer."

'Interpreters Of Peace'

Tuesday was Memorial Day.

Tradition has it that speeches and parades honor those who have fallen for this nation.

Tradition Tuesday had to include those thousands who have died in the most complex of American military involvements: Vietnam.

Our soldiers and marines are holding the arrows of war in one hand and a dove of peace in the other. That is how complex and how idealistic things are.

Our servicemen, indeed special detachments have been sent, are doing things for South Viet natives which the North Viet are unable, by lack of means and lack of meaning, to do.

Special forces and off-duty troops give personal aid to a populace which has been terrorized or intimidated by Viet - Cong. And the troops take up their weapons, climb into their helicopters and proceed to another point on the map for another skirmish with the V-C.

Such a joint effort has little precedent in the annals of wartime service.

But this country's foreign policy is a mixture of helping the underdeveloped nation, of seeking continued alliance with former colonial powers and of suffering the consequences of trying to be noble and practical at one time.

The United States is the only country to give so much to its enemies the day after a peace treaty is signed. And in Vietnam, we help those who still are uncertain of our help, simply because they know so little of self-government. But they are learning, we are sure, that the northern alternative is not any real choice. It is quite certain North Vietnam wants South Vietnam's food sources, which ultimately would feed Red Chinese.

Our servicemen, thus on this past Memorial Day, are to be celebrated for their courage and devotion to their country and to those principles which, somehow, also make our fighting men interpreters of peace.

WHAT OTHERS SAY

Ice Cream For Cuba

Cuba's Castro promises his people that before long they will have 45 flavors of ice cream to choose from, more than are available in any other country of the world. That should be dandy news for the Cubans; according to all reports, they have little other dietary variety.

Havana Radio, for example, has let it be known that fish—a great favorite—is being rationed at a pound and a half a month.

Cubans refugees in this country report that the incentive for a fisherman is gone. Once he meets his small quota, which goes to the state, he has no reason to bring in more. Most of the seafood, and all the best, goes to Russia or to what pass for luxury hotels in Havana.

The fish available to most Cubans is so small it should have been tossed back into the ocean. Besides, it is often spoiled because of inadequate refrigeration. Electricity, it seems, is rationed and is available for only about four hours daily.

This means, of course, that when all that ice cream becomes available, the Cubans will have to eat it very fast, and given the meager menu available to most of Fidel's subjects, they will have to eat a lot of it. Forty-five flavors may not be nearly enough.

Record For 60th Of Achievement

By Vern Sanford

State Legislators wound up their 60th session here on schedule, despite a hectic flurry of last-minute assignments, and left behind a far-reaching record of achievement in many areas.

No one can deny that there were some notable failures. But the accomplishments were impressive.

Here is a random look at some of the session's highlights:

—BUDGET - Lawmakers agreed on $2,400,000,000 in spending ($446,800,000 from general revenue) for 1968, without passing a tax bill.

They will come back next year to budget for 1969. Funds provide for substantial increases in all areas of state government, including education, health, general administration and welfare.

—SCHOOL TEACHERS - After requesting a $68,000,000 salary increase program and being offered $55,500,000 by the Senate, teachers finally got $51,000,000.

—STATE EMPLOYEES - These workers came up with their most substantial salary benefits in history. Raises averaged about 14 percent and ranged up to 30 percent and more in some salaries.

—MEDICAID - Title 19 hospitalization and medical aid to the needy - most dramatic step in public welfare since launching of social security - was implemented for Texas by passage of a special act and appropriation of nearly $25,000,000.

—EDUCATION - Money was made available for 2,300,000 public school pupils and a 26 percent increase in higher education spending. Junior college appropriations were increased from $13,600,000 to $24,400,000.

—CITY SALES TAX - Cities got the authority they sought to supplement their property tax income by levying one percent sales taxes on vote of their citizens after next August.

—LABOR - Although defeated on minimum wage legislation and workmen's compensation law revision, labor came to terms with management on a compromise industrial safety act and an increase in unemployment compensation benefits from a maximum of $37 to $45 a week.

—CONSUMER CREDIT - State's first consumer credit code regulates lending at all levels. Rates of up to 240 percent on very small loans stirred controversy, but the bill passed by big margins.

—TRAFFIC SAFETY - Major part of Gov. John Connally's recommended highway safety program was approved. It included a new drivers' license act, an auto inspection bill and establishment of a traffic program to be administered by the Governor.

—OPEN MEETINGS - Another Texas legislative first, an act to require open meetings of governmental agencies at all levels was signed into law by the Governor who termed it "a great step forward to provide a means whereby the public can be more informed on governmental and public affairs."

—REAPPORTIONMENT - Legislators agreed on both congressional and state House of Representatives redistricting. However, they could not get together on judicial reapportionment.

—WATER - Texas Water Development Board received $1,200,000 more for its operations and completion of a statewide master plan. Texas Water Rights Commission got a boost of $484,422 to aid in administering the new water rights adjudication act which also is a product of the 60th session.

—POLLUTION - Strengthened Water Pollution Control Board got $13,100,000 for its 1968 operations. An air pollution control measure also became law.

—SUNDAY CLOSING - Lawmakers tightened Sunday closing laws

by repealing the "emergency purchase" provisions of the old law.

Key recommendations of Governor Connally which failed to clear the Legislature were proposals for sweeping revision of the state constitution by a 450-member convention and legalized sale of liquor by the drink.

Bill to legalize parimutuel wagering on horse races never came to a showdown vote, but a referendum on the issue was approved for inclusion on next May's Democratic and Republican primary election ballots.

—CONALLY VETOES - Most of the bills passed by the Legislature are signed into law. But once in awhile the governor vetoes a measure. One he vetoed would have allowed cigarette distributors to make payment for cigarette stamps purchased from the state within 15 days after the purchase rather than when the purchase is made.

Connally said he vetoed the bill because, although it would have required the distributors buying on credit to put up a bond, "this surety bond does not change the constitutionality of pledging the state's credit."

In addition, the Governor said the state comptroller has informed him that "the general revenue fund in the treasury would lose approximately $5,500,000 during this current fiscal year because of the delay in payments for cigarette stamps."

—LEGISLATORS' PAY - Both Houses approved - and the people will bet a chance to vote on - the proposed constitution amendment which would raise the salaries of legislators from the current $4,800 to a maximum of $8,400.

Measure, authored by Rep. Alonzo Jamison of Denton, will be placed on the ballot in the next general election to let the voters decide whether they want to raise the salaries of their representatives and senators.

—EDUCATION FUNDS - Governor Connally has approved an expenditure of more than $1,000,000 requested by the Texas Education Agency under Title III of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act for educational planning in a variety of fields.

Some $67,590 will go to schools in Edinburg, Corpus Christi, Victoria, Orange, Kilgore, Mount Pleasant, Wichita Falls, Dallas, Waco, Abilene, San Angelo, Lubbock, Midland, El Paso and San Antonio. Bryan and A&M school districts each will receive $22,500.

Money can go for salaries, consultant fees and travel. Grants soon will be transferred to the board of directors for the Education Service Center in each geographic region of the state.

OLD PHILOSOPHER

Dear editor:

A neighbor of mine climbed through a fence of mine yesterday morning, well actually he didn't climb through, he just stepped over, since the top two wires have been missing since 1958 and as long as it suits my cows it suits me, and handed me a newspaper and said, "Here, read this," and pointed to an article he'd marked.

What it was was a report on the government's current consumer price index, showing that living costs last month climbed three-tenths of one per cent, which is figuring it pretty close. I would have figured it had jumped maybe 40 percent. In fact, it was too close for some people who have trouble with fractions, because I bought a tractor bolt last week that used to cost a nickel and now costs 15 cents, although it's possible the store owner can figure fractions like three-tenths of one percent but just hadn't read the latest consumer price index.

But the part of the article he especially wanted me to read brought out that a million workers in the auto industry will now get a cost of living pay hike of two cents an hour because their labor contracts are pegged to the consumer price index. Things go up, their wages go up.

"That's what we ought to have," he said. "Farmers don't get enough per hour. When things go up, we ought to get paid more."

I didn't argue with him, but I've got a little different notion about it. We ought to get paid more, but not more per hour.

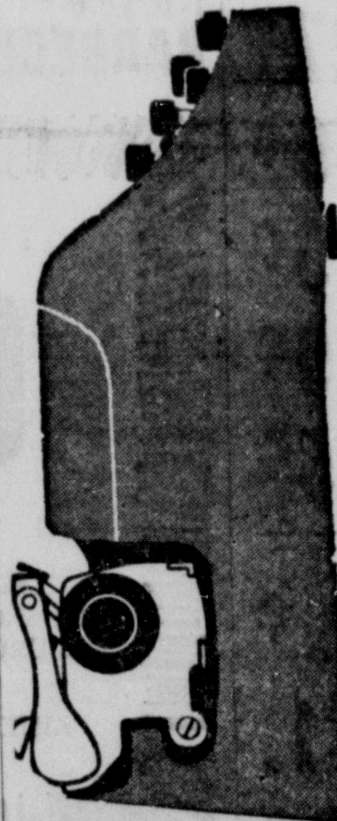

You start trying to pay a farmer

Gonzales Bonds

Ordered Forfeited

Appearance bonds for Theodore Gonzales and Hipilito Gonzales were ordered forfeited when the defendants failed to appear in District Court here. Both cases resulted from a fight at the La Rumba tavern in Cameron on August 22, 1965, when Simon Amador received fatal stab wounds.

Hipilito Gonzales had been found guilty of murder with malice and sentenced to 15 years in prison. He was free on bond pending appeal of the sentence. A warrant for his arrest was circulated to law officials in the area in April after the appeal was denied and he could not be located.

COUNTY AGENT'S NOTES

—By—

J. D. MOORE

Weather Affects Sorghum, Cotton

Unusual weather conditions have affected the grain sorghum and cotton crops. In grain sorghum there is a damage in the heads where many of the branches have flowers which never developed. This is typical of temperature effect during the early formation of the head. This has been found both where overflood has occurred and in locations where it has not.

The damage is caused by rather high or low temperatures, after the growing point is initiated, but high temperature is believed to be the most frequent cause. Where overflood has occurred, this is a fairly consistent type of damage. In addition, the leaf whorl is often tight around the head and may prevent its normal emergence from the flag leaf in flooded situations.

In cotton, the Ascochyta Blight or wet-weather blight, has occurred in some fields over the county. This disease occurs during May on the seed leaves of young plants as roundish, purplish spots. As the spots enlarge the centers are brittle and frequently fall from old spots. The disease does cause some damage in Northwest Texas because it affects leaf stems, stalks, and bolls.

The fungus survives in the soil on old infected stems, leaves and burs of the cotton plant.

Cong. Poage Sponsors Bill For Rural Electric, Telephone Banks

The House Committee on Agriculture last week approved H. R. 10190, a bill by Chairman W. R. (Bob) Poage to provide a new supplemental non-Federal source of capital for rural electric and rural telephone systems.

The legislation would create two new Government-sponsored financial institutions - a Rural Electric Bank and a Rural Telephone Bank. As amended by the Committee, the legislation places certain restrictions upon loans for the building of electric generating plants by rural electric systems.

The legislation is intended to bring funds from the private money market into the rural electrification and telephone programs to augment the present Rural Electrification Administration (REA) two percent loan money.

Under H. R. 10190, which now goes to the House for action, the financial structure of each of the two banks would include (1) capital subscribed by the United States which ultimately would be replaced just as it has been in the Land Banks, by capital paid in by each borrower (5 percent of each loan), (2) capital subscribed by borrowers and their members as investments, and (3) funds received from the investment of electric consumers of borrowers and capital obtained through sale of debentures in the private money market to an amount not to exceed eight times the capital subscribed by the Government.

The legislation continues the authority of the REA to make direct 2 percent loans to any qualified borrower who has less than 40 percent equity in its plant, or to any borrower with less than 2 customers per mile. The more prosperous rural systems would go to the bank for money and would pay higher interest rates.

Legislation proposing the creation of the electric and telephone banks, sponsored by the National Rural Electric Cooperative Association, was introduced by Cong. Poage in the 89th Congress, but never came to a vote in the full Agriculture Committee. Poage re-introduced the legislation in the 90th Congress early this year as H. R. 1400. This bill was considered by the Committee and amended. He was then instructed by the Committee to reintroduce it as H. R. 10190 - with all the changes made in Committee. This is known as a "clean bill."

Patterned after the Farm Credit System, the two banks would use both Federal and non-Federal funds with the objective that they ultimately would pay off all indebtedness to the Government and become privately owned, operated and financed corporations.

Milam Certified In Brucellosis State Program

Dr. S. B. Walker, Executive Director of the Texas Animal Health Commission, announces receipt of the certificate designating Milam County as a Modified-Certified Brucellosis Area.

This recognition was accomplished by testing all breeding cattle within the county with less than one percent infection being disclosed.

The certificate which will be effective for three years will be received by the County Agricultural Agent within a few days.

The Animal Health Commission expresses its appreciation to the livestock producers and all persons responsible for the cooperation extended to its representatives while testing in the county. Now that Modified-Certified status has been obtained, it is important to all producers to maintain the recognized status of the county.

Wings On Her Feet

Race Won: Child Saved

By Jesse Wilkerson

This is the story of a foot race. It took place in Cameron, back in the bygone years of the late nineties. The race was not a pre-arranged affair, but one that developed on the spur of the moment.

On this particular day, a woman and a man friend stood talking on the porch of the old Ruby Hotel, just across the street from the County Jail. While they were conversing, there came the sound of the whistle of the afternoon passenger train as it left the station, going south.

What caused them both to look, at the same instant, in the direction of the railroad crossing, cannot be explained. Perhaps it was the sharing of a sense of impending tragedy.

In the middle of the tracks stood a small child. Too young to realize his perilous position, he seemed rooted to the spot, as if fascinated by the approaching train.

"Merciful heavens!" the lady screamed, and they both started running.

The train had picked up considerable speed as it rounded the bend below the station. The cutting off of steam and the noise of the grinding brakes gave evidence that the engineer had spotted the little tot. The loud blast of the engine whistle had no effect on the child, as he did not move.

Telling of their frantic run, the man said, "When we started I was in the lead, but she passed me like I was standing still. The train was almost upon her as I saw her reach the tracks. Then she disappeared from sight when the engine cut off my view as it went by. Right then I began to feel sick all over, for I didn't think she had made it."

The man paused for a moment and then continued, "When the last coach had passed, I rushed across the tracks. Lo and behold! There she stood, crying with happiness, holding the child safe in her arms.

After she had regained her breath and was able to speak, she said "That was a close shave. I could feel the swish of the wind as the engine just missed me."

Surely, this valiant lady, for her heroic deed, would have received the Carnegie Medal, had it been in existence at that time.

Later, when asked about her amazing run, the good lady said, "At first I did not recognize the child, but as I got closer, I saw that it was my nephew. My heart came to my throat. I guess God gave wings to my feet."

GETTING TWIST OUT OF LINE

Most aggravating thing about a monofilament leader is its inclination to curl. Anglers who use such leaders should carry in their tackle boxes a sponge rubber ball with a slit in it. Run the line through the slit several times, pulling hard, until the twist is removed.

Speech: How Free?

"I believe in free speech," said a recent letter-to-the-editor. "And anyone against it should be silenced."

There is a nutshell in one of the great dilemmas of our day. We are pulled both ways. We want speech to be free, yet we want to silence speech that we don't like. Where shall we draw the line?

Some call for total freedom, with no limits at all. At the first sign of any restraint, they argue:

"The Constitution guarantees freedom of speech, with no ifs, ands, or buts. Freedom means freedom, nothing less."

But our courts don't go that far. They hold that, even though the Constitution doesn't say so, certain implied exceptions cannot be avoided.

Thus, freedom of speech may be limited as to time and place. For example, you have no right to holler through a megaphone at midnight, outside of a hospital.

Furthermore, besides limits as to time and place, the law puts limits on the content of speech.

One such limit is on speech that is defamatory. Without this limit, your neighbor could spread vile rumors about you—with no basis at all except malice.

Another limit is on speech that is obscene. Without this limit a kindergarten teacher, if so inclined, could read hardcore pornography to her pupils.

Another limit is on speech that is seditious. Without this limit, a speaker could incite a mob to open and violent revolution.

Yet, even in these special areas, the limits on freedom of speech are flexible. Thus:

Defamatory statements may be held lawful if honestly made, on a matter of legitimate concern to the speaker.

Gross vulgarity may be held lawful if it has "redeeming social importance."

And wrathful political dissent may be held lawful if it poses no "clear and present danger" of serious evil consequences.

In short, the law says we must have limits on freedom of speech—but we must keep those limits to a minimum. Limits are the exception. Freedom is the rule.
